Student reports allegation to University
College supports student and imposes precautionary measures if appropriate, but does not investigate
University investigation finds no breach of University rules
On the basis of the University's findings, is there a potential breach of the College Rules?
If no, then no further action
If yes, then to College processes
University investigation finds breach of University rules
University considers sanction
College decides whether breach of the College Rules, relying on fact-finding by OSCCA
Potential for College to consent to University imposing college-related sanction under University Student Disciplinary Procedure para. 8.18(a)
College decides whether to impose a sanction